Duty Position Job Description/Criteria:

The Survey Team Leader serves as the Officer in Charge of the Survey Section and is responsible for planning, directing, and supervising all survey operations in support of the 46th Civil Support Team mission. This officer leads the team in conducting reconnaissance, monitoring, sampling, and site characterization during chemical, biological, radiological, and nuclear incidents. They are charged with developing entry plans, selecting appropriate protective ensembles, and ensuring all survey operations are executed safely and effectively. The Survey Team Leader integrates closely with other CST elements, coordinating decontamination, analytical laboratory, and communications support to provide accurate and timely assessments to the Incident Commander. In addition to operational leadership, the Survey Team Leader is responsible for the training, readiness, and professional development of survey section personnel. They ensure equipment is properly maintained, calibrated, and mission-ready, while enforcing safety standards and contamination control measures. The position requires frequent coordination with interagency partners, providing technical expertise and leadership in joint operations, exercises, and real-world incidents. As a key member of the CST leadership team, the Survey Team Leader must balance tactical oversight with operational planning and decision-making, ensuring the survey section remains fully capable of delivering rapid, precise, and professional support in high-stress, no-fail environments.
